MEMORANDUM DECISION REGARDING MARYLYN TREE, LLC'S SUPPLEMENTAL MEMORANDUM AND AFFIDAVIT IN RESPONSE TO THE COURT'S
MEMORANDUM DECISION OF FEBRUARY 17, 2011

On February 17, 2011, the court entered a memorandum decision and order (Dkt. No. 200) regarding the landlord's Motion to Amend the Order of Conditional Assumption of the Lease (Dkt. No. 141).<sup>1</sup> In that memorandum decision and order, the court noted that the trustee did not contest a $50.00 administrative fee claimed by the landlord for a returned check, but did contest the landlord's claim for late fees and attorney's fees. The <sup>1</sup> As the court stated in that memorandum decision and order, the parties never submitted an agreed order for conditional assumption of the lease, but the landlord nonetheless styled its motion as though an order had already been entered. See Mem. Decision and Order Re Marylyn Tree, LLC's Mot. To Am. the Order of Conditional Assumption of the Lease, n.1, Feb. 17, 2011 (Dkt. No. 200).

court overruled the trustee's objection to the landlord's claim for $12,785.00 in late fees. In addition, after determining that sections 15.2(d) and 15.3 of the lease governed the entitlement to attorney's fees in this matter, the court addressed the specific charges contained in the landlord's fee request of $61,580.31.

After sustaining three of the trustee's objections to the fee request, which resulted in a $392.50 reduction, the court identified charges that were apparently counted twice toward the total fee request and other charges it questioned as being compensable under sections 15.2(d) or 15.3 of the lease. The landlord was then granted leave to file an affidavit explaining: (1) whether the apparent double charges in fact related to distinct work-items that were each compensable; and (2) why the charges the court found questionable were in fact compensable under sections 15.2(d) or 15.3 of the lease. The trustee was given 14 days from the filing of the affidavit to file a response.

The landlord thereafter filed a supplemental memorandum attaching an affidavit from Michael E. Brand, Esq., counsel for landlord, on February 25, 2011 (Dkt. No. 205). The trustee did not file a response to the supplemental memorandum and affidavit. In the affidavit, landlord's counsel acknowledged that duplicate charges were submitted as the result of an administrative error and stated that the landlord agreed that those items should be reduced by half in the amount of $1087.50. (Aff. of Michael E. Brand, Esq. ¶ 2, hereinafter "Brand Aff.".) Moreover, landlord's counsel addressed each of the questionable charges identified by the court and reduced the landlord's fee request by an additional $5,266.50. (Brand Aff. ¶¶ 3-4.) It appears, however, that the landlord committed two errors in arriving at this sum and that the reduction of the questionable charges should instead total $5,491.25.<sup>2</sup>

Having reviewed the affidavit of landlord's counsel, the court concludes that the landlord has sufficiently addressed its concerns regarding the duplicate and questionable charges by making the aforementioned reductions. Accordingly, the court shall grant the landlord's Motion to Amend the Order of Conditional Assumption of the Lease in the following amounts: (1) a $50.00 administrative fee for a returned check; (2) $12,785.00

Andrew Currie, Esq.

<sup>3</sup> To arrive at this total, the court subtracted the following amounts from the $61,580.31 fee request: (1) $392.50 in charges that the court struck from the fee request in its February 17, 2011 memorandum decision and order after ruling on the trustee's objections; (2) $1,087.50 in duplicate charges; and (3) $5,491.25 in questionable charges.
